SPRING 2014

HIGHLIGHTS

from Rovio Books

DEAR FRIENDS,

We all remember the characters and worlds we fell in love with as kids. Storytelling has that unique power – to entertain and inspire in equal measure. This belief is central to everything we do at Rovio, whether it's games with over a billion downloads, or the highly successful animations that followed. And yet, there's still no better way to share great stories than through books.

We're lucky enough to have brands that engage a vast audience, and characters that our fans already know and love. This gives us a great opportunity to help kids discover the joy of reading and learn about the world around them.

With this in mind, I'm delighted to present the Rovio Books Spring 2014 Catalog. This year, we have a wide range of upcoming titles that we're really proud of. Some titles introduce new characters and stories to our fans, while others focus on educating kids without losing our trademark sense of fun.

I hope you will find them as inspiring as I do!

With warmest regards,

Laura Nevanlinna
Publishing Director
Rovio Books
ENTERTAIN. INSPIRE. EDUCATE.
