The Ghosts Are About – Don't Miss Out!

2010 | Original title: Haamuhetki kullan kallis

This book for little ones is about spooks and ghosts, which scare them just that little bit!

The night spreads out its dark cloak and strange things start happening: sheets on the clothes line crackle, there's a glint of sharp teeth and a shadow slinks under the maple tree...

Hush, hush, hush.
In their hidey-hole
ghosts hide from the light.
Hush, hush, hush.
From their hidey-hole
they rush to work at night.

Finnish children's poets know what happens when the clock strikes thirteen at night, and about the secret life of ghosts. The 'ghost' writers of this book include: KAARINA HELAKISA, JUUKA ITKONEN, ELINA KARJALAINEN, TUULA KOROLAINEN, KIRSI KUNNAS, TITTAMARI MARTTINEN, PIA PERKIÖ and others. ANNE VASKO (formerly Peltola) has illustrated the book with cheery ghosts and silly spooks. VASKO won an award for her illustrations for the song book My Friend and Others I know in the image and illustrations category of the Grafia 2006 Prize.

A Tiny Tale of a Princess

2010 | Original title: Pieni prinsessasatu

An enchanting picture book for all little princesses and little princes.

Once upon a time there was a little princess called Kaisa. Kaisa opened the window onto the summer morning, put on a lacy dress and pulled on shoes decorated with bows. Kaisa looked at herself in the mirror. Not a single tangle in her hair! She fixed some bobbles in her hair and a tiara on her head. She was ready to set out from the castle and wander in the King's domain.

Prince Paul was angling by the pond but did not catch a single fish. Princess Kaisa and Prince Paul played together all day long and had a break in the king's castle to eat some raisin stew and cake. At nightfall the prince had to fetch his steed and go back home but Princess Kaisa and Prince Paul decided to play together the next day, too. Kaisa waved at Paul from the window.

A nightingale wished them good night. The gatekeeper shut the gate. Kaisa shut the window. The Queen brushed Kaisa's hair and plaited it for the night; in the morning she would be able to undo the pigtails and toss her curls.

Too-wit, too-woo, too-who?

2010 | Original title: Huhuu – kuka siellä?

A merry fable about a little Too-wit Egg's adventures in Too-wit Woods and on the Too-wit Mountain with heart-warming illustrations by KRISTIINA LOUHI.

When the morning sun peeped into the Too-wits' nest, Mother Too-wit felt she might be ready to lay an egg. She settled in the downy nest, watched the clouds drifting in the sky and rolled out an egg. The egg had jaunty spots, it was smooth as silk and altogether perfect. Mother Too-wit tapped the egg lightly and warbled, as she was wont to warble to her eggs, 'Too-wit, too-woo, too-who?'

The next thing she knew, the egg started quivering and shivering, shifting and swaying, bouncing and bounding – and finally it sprang out of the nest. 'Help!' Mother Too-wit cried. 'It's on the run!'
